

ADDENDUM A TO UPS APPROVED BEER SHIPPER AGREEMENT
(Effective October 1, 2021)

Pursuant to the terms and conditions of your UPS Approved Beer Shipping Agreement, this Addendum A and the additional terms available online at ups.com/beer, UPS permits only the types of Beer shipments described below to the states indicated below, but only where permitted by applicable federal, state and local laws and only when the shipper complies with all applicable federal, state and local laws, regulations and requirements. This Addendum A does not provide any form of legal advice to the shipper; it sets forth only the states to which UPS will transport Beer when such transportation is allowed by law. The shipper is solely responsible for ensuring that any shipment tendered to UPS is fully in compliance with all applicable legal requirements.

Shipments of Beer are not allowed to consumers in states not listed in the chart below. Shipments to consumers in states listed below are allowed as follows:

Interstate Brewery Shipment: Shipments of Beer from licensed out-of-state breweries may be shipped to consumers in states with “Yes” in the column labeled “Interstate Brewery Shipment”;

Intrastate Brewery Shipment: Beer purchased from licensed breweries within the state may be shipped to consumers in the same state as the brewery in those states with “Yes” in the column labeled “Intrastate Brewery Shipment”;

Interstate Retailer Shipment: Shipments of Beer from licensed out-of-state Beer retailers may be shipped to consumers in states with “Yes” in the column labeled “Interstate Beer Retailer Shipment”;

Intrastate Retailer Shipment: Beer purchased from licensed Beer retailers may be shipped to consumers in the same state as the retailer in those states with “Yes” in the column labeled “Intrastate Retailer Shipment”;

Licensed to Licensed: Shipments of Beer from licensed shippers to licensed consignees may be shipped to and from all states, subject to applicable law.

IMPORTANT NOTE: Shippers are responsible for ensuring that all shipments of Beer comply with all applicable federal, state and local laws, regulations and requirements, including quantity limitations, reporting requirements, limits on frequency of shipments, and permitting and/or taxation requirements. Most destination states require permits or licenses from the destination state for Beer shipments to consumers. Shippers must ensure that they do not ship to dry areas in any state that may otherwise allow Beer shipments, including to dry areas in Alaska, New Hampshire and Vermont. Shippers are also responsible for compliance with any licensing or other requirements for exporting beer out of the shipper’s state.
